

Bovis Lend Lease Japan Telecommunications Sector

Integrated services for mobile networks and call centres

Bovis Lend Lease Japan has in depth management experience and technical expertise to service the dynamic and evolving telecommunications sector in Japan. We offer project solutions for a complete range of customer driven telecommunications needs, providing creative first class outcomes.

Starting from mid 2001, Bovis Lend Lease has provided the rollout management for over 7000 Third Generation (3G) base stations in the regions of Kansai, Tokai, Tohoku, Chugoku and Shikoku for Nokia. This was the first major rollout of 3G in the world, and involved the installation, commissioning and integration of BTS and RNC. Bovis Lend Lease provides Nokia with a full project management rollout service including management of schedules, equipment, operator interface, contractor management and technical support. The results have been, and continue to be world leading in terms of deployment speed and quality.

From late 2002, Bovis Lend Lease Japan commenced a full turnkey project management service for the world's leading operator, Vodafone. The first phase which was substantially completed in 2003, included the countrywide delivery of 10,000 new and co-located 3G sites. Prior to commencing any site related work, Bovis Lend Lease embarked on an extensive value-engineering program which led to significant capital expenditure savings for Vodafone, while maintaining high technical performance and quality standards. The menu of services includes project management for site surveys, site owner negotiations, site design, government applications, civil works, and monitoring of vendor implementation programmes. The success of Phase 1 has led to the award of 5000 additional sites to Bovis Lend Lease Japan.

In addition to mobile network solutions, and backed by extensive experience in the Japanese construction industry, Bovis Lend Lease has completed a number of internet data and call centres throughout Japan.

The key to Bovis Lend Lease's success in the telecommunications sector is our ability to deliver solutions that address all three tiers of the industry's workspace and facility requirements:

- The needs of systems users
- The space that surrounds and contains the systems
- The complex technology supporting the systems